PROGRAM

Welcome: Corey MacPherson, Dean of Hendricks Chapel

Community Sing

The Star-Spangled Banner — Francis Scott Key (1779-1843)
John Stafford Smith (1750-1836)
Ed. Mark Clague (b. 1966) & Andrew Kuster (b. 1969)

O say can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
O say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

Nottingham Ham Fam Voices Treble Choir

Community Sing

America the Beautiful — Katharine Lee Bates (1859-1929), Samuel A. Ward (1847-1903)

O beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain,
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain!
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea!

Combined Choirs

Homeland — Gustav Holst (1874-1934), arr. Z. Randall Stroope (b. 1953)

Ida Tili-Trebicka, piano
Aaron Rapray, organ
Lydia Morris, trumpet, Madeline Macdonald, trumpet
Ryan Hill, horn, Elijah Campbell, trombone, Michael Coldren, tuba,
Austin Aserian, timpani, Ishan Gottam, percussion

I vow to you, my country, all earthly things above,
Entire and whole and perfect, the service of my love:
The love that asks no question, the love that stands the test,
That lays upon the altar the dearest and the best;
The love that never falters, the love that pays the price.
The love that makes undaunted the final sacrifice.

Though the road has bends and turns, and my spirit suffers,
Humans fail, systems fail, shadows fall.
But the ruts run deep, cut by the blood of faces above,
And voices now silent . . .
But the message loud is heard: "Homeland. Homeland,
Renew your youth, restore your soul!"

Homeland, the country that I love, hold out your arms to me.
I strive for you, and give to you the best I hope to be.
May your wisdom be your armour, your compassion be your sword;
May your strength be forged with mercy, your courage lives restore.
Homeland, the country that I love, forever reign supreme;
And when time stands still, my homeland, may heaven hold your dream.
My homeland, be my dream, my hope.
Homeland, homeland!

WELCOME

Welcome to "We Hold These Truths: A Celebration of America's 250th." This semiquincentennial is a fitting moment to reflect on the ideals of our founding: life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. What has been our story as we seek to meet them? The music in this concert gathers voices from our journey, from folk hymns to Dolly Parton, from activist Grace Lee Boggs to Syracuse composers who created new works for this occasion. I hope you will add your voice too, raising it in song and sharing your dreams for the next generation. Thank you for being part of this celebration and dreaming with us!

SELECTED PROGRAM NOTES

American Dream

The lyrics are a collage of re-imagined familiar texts associated with America, including Katherine Lee Bates's "America the Beautiful" (both current and older versions), Emma Lazarus's "The New Colossus," Samuel Francis Smith's "My Country 'Tis of Thee," the Declaration of Independence, and the Pledge of Allegiance. The overall reframing of these texts as questions owes much in spirit to Martin Luther King, Jr.'s famous "I Have a Dream" speech. The music supports these repurposed texts by creating a dreamscape of questions and contemplation.

-Natalie Draper, composer

Do we hold these truths to be self-evident?
Are we all created equal?
Do we have the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness?
America,
Are you beautiful?
With spacious skies
And purple mountain majesties?
Do you let freedom ring
From sea to shining sea?

Do we hold these truths to be self-evident?
Are we all created equal?
Do we have the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness?
Oh, mother of exiles,
Is this a sweet land of liberty?
Does god shed his grace on thee?
Are there no tyrants here?
Who stain, with selfish gain,
The banner of the free?

Do we hold these truths to be self-evident?
Are we all created equal?
Do we have the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness?
America,
Are you beautiful?
With spacious skies
And amber waves of grain?
Do you let freedom ring
Above the fruited plain?
America!
Will you take in the homeless, the tired, and the poor?
The tempest-tost, huddled masses?
Will you take in the homeless, the tired, and the poor?
Tell them America is their land, too?
Will you?

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America And to the Republic for which it stands
One nation, under god, with liberty and justice for all.
With liberty and justice for all.
America,
Are you beautiful?
With spacious skies?
America
America

Campaign Song

Campaign Song (Or, Why We Oppose Votes for Men) sets two poems ("Why We Oppose Votes for Men" and "A Consistent Anti to Her Son") by American author and activist Alice Duer Miller, taken from her 1915 collection Are Women People? A Book of Rhymes for Suffrage Times. Duer Miller's poems, many first published in the New York Tribune, form a witty, acerbic response to the anti-suffrage arguments of her time. In both poems heard in Campaign Song, Duer Miller flips common arguments against suffrage back onto men, highlighting the hypocrisy in their rhetoric. Visiting these texts over a century later, I expected to find them a quaint relic of a less enlightened time. Instead, they struck me as an urgent reminder of the hard-won battles for equality and democracy, and our never-ending pursuit of a more perfect union.

-Loren Loiacono, composer

"A Consistent Anti to Her Son" from Are Women People?

By Alice Duer Miller

You're twenty-one to-day, Willie,
And a danger lurks at the door,
I've known about it always,
But I've never spoke before;
When you were only a baby
It seemed so very remote,
But you're twenty-one to-day, Willie
And old enough to vote.

You must not go to the polls, Willie,
Never go to the polls,
They're dark and dreadful places
Where many lose their souls;
They smirch, degrade and coarsen,
Terrible things they do
To quiet, elderly women--
What would they do to you?

If you've a boyish fancy
For any measure or man
Tell me, and I'll tell Father
He'll vote for it, if he can.
He casts my vote, and Louisa's,
And Sarah, and dear Aunt Clo;
Wouldn't you let him vote for you?
Father, who loves you so?

I've guarded you always, Willie,
Body and soul from harm;
I'll guard your faith and honor,
Your innocence and charm
From the polls and their evil spirits,
Politics, rum, and pelf;
Do you think I'd send my only son
Where I would not go myself

"Why We Oppose Votes for Men" from Are Women People?

By Alice Duer Miller

Because man's place is in the armory!
Because no really manly man wants to settle any question otherwise than by fighting about it!
Because if men should adopt peaceable methods women will no longer look up to them!
Because men will lose their charm if they step out of their natural sphere and interest themselves in other matters than feats of arms, uniforms and drums!
Because men are too emotional to vote. Their conduct at baseball games and political conventions shows this, while their innate tendency to appeal to force renders them unfit for the task of government!

Homeland

The text of Homeland transcends any cultural or national boundaries. People throughout history have cherished their ties of blood, language, and culture, and fought with their lives to protect them. May we ever value our heritage, and the "homeland" which preserves it to this day.

The arranger of Homeland (Z. Randall Stroope) wrote the second and third stanzas in dedication to his own father who, as a prisoner of war, walked the Bataan Death March in World War II so that his son, and the sons and daughters of others might celebrate freedom and life to this day.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The 1917 Service Version of the National Anthem was provided by the Star-Spangled Music Foundation.

Campaign Song and American Dream, commissioned works premiered by Ensemble Sonora, are made possible by a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts, with the support of the Office of the Governor and the New York State Legislature.

Ensemble Sonora (from the Latin sonare, "to sound") is a community of professional choral artists creating music that engages with the issues and stories of our time. Under the direction of Dr. Wendy K. Moy, the ensemble unites musicians across Central New York to make music that resonates, both sonically and socially. Each project is built around repertoire chosen for its artistry and expressive power. Our music invites performers and audiences alike to listen more deeply.

We Demand! A Legacy of Activism in America

On view at the Special Collections Research Center, Bird Library, 6th floor gallery until December 23, 2026.
This exhibition is free and open to the public!

Come explore traces of resistance and perseverance in the form of publications, posters, protest signs, photographs, demands, newsletters, and more that document the critical role of activism in challenging injustice and securing greater freedoms for all. For decades, the Special Collections Research Center (SCRC) has collected materials related to histories of activism and social reform in America that illustrate how advancements in rights were made possible by those who came before. This tireless pursuit and ongoing work of individuals and collective groups who have come together to push for change—not always seen during their lifetimes—in the face of extraordinary challenges and circumstances are documented within this exhibition.

SCRC is offering a free public tour of We Demand! on Wednesday, November 11, 2026, from 5:30 - 7 PM.
More information on the exhibition and tour can be found in the lobby.

Syracuse University Art Museum

Tonight's concert celebrates 250 years of the American story, and the Syracuse University Art Museum invites you to keep exploring. Scan the QR code to open our free guide on Bloomberg Connects and discover some of the American artworks on view in our galleries. Then come experience them in person. Admission is always free and open to all. The SU Art Museum is located on the first floor of the Shaffer Art Building, across the Quad from Hendricks Chapel.
